

Dr. Anu Wadhwa is a Professor of Anesthesiology and the Director of Faculty Mentoring and Advancement, at the University of Texas Southwestern in Dallas, Texas. She was at the University of Louisville for 15 years and then at University of California San Diego before she moved to Dallas. She is the Past President of “International Society of Perioperative Care of Patients with Obesity”. She has been invited to many national and international talks. She has been instrumental in formulating guidelines for ERAS for bariatric surgery and HiPEC surgery and has authored the international guidelines. She is a member of the Outcomes Research Consortium. She has chaired and co-chaired multiple committees at ASA, IARS, World congress and IFSO.